Created To Be His Help Meet is not entirely bad, of course, and Pearl offers several valuable insights. She and I agree that the Lord has created women to be distinct from men not only in body, but also in role. In his wisdom, the Lord has given to men the position of leadership in the home and he has given women the complementary, helping role.

Created to Be His Help Meet

From the first page of Created To Be His Help Meet to the last, Debi Pearl shows that she is an unsuitable mentor: her counsel is too often foolish, her words too often harsh, her grasp of Scripture and theology inadequate and, not surprisingly then, her grasp of the utter centrality of the gospel almost completely missing.

Created To Be His Help Meet (Part 2) | Tim Challies

Both man and woman were made in God's image, according to Genesis 1:27, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them." The apostle Paul refers to Genesis when he says, "A man shall leave his father and mother and hold fast to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh" (Ephesians 5:31).

For those days, Thomas offers these reminders to help ease the tension: God created marriage as a loyal partnership between one man and one woman. Marriage is the firmest foundation for building a family. God designed sexual expression to help married couples build intimacy. Marriage mirrors God's covenant relationship with His people.

God's Design for Marriage - Focus on the Family

His intellect is corrupted by falsehood and misunderstanding: his speech no longer continually glorifies God; his relationships are often governed by selfishness rather than love, and so forth. Though man is still in the image of God, in every aspect of life some parts of that image have been distorted or lost (Systematic Theology , p. 444, emphasis added).
